Award Medals, Prizes In Essay Competition

The historical essay contest for seventh and eighth graders in the Mokena public and parochial schools was concluded last Thursday afternoon with the awarding of medals and prizes.

The contest was conducted under the joint sponsorship of the DesPlaines Valley chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Mokena Book club.

Mrs. Leo J. Marcoux, representing the DAR as chapter historian, and Mrs. Philip Lenz, president of the book club, and their committee were gratified with the response and the quality of the essays. The essays, they said, displayed great interest in the project and considerable digging in the archives on the part of the contestants.

Mrs. Marcoux awarded the DAR silver medal to the top winner in each school. Mrs. Lenz awarded a set of authentic reproductions, on antiqued parchment, of the great American historical documents, to the top winner in each grade. These replicas of historical documents include the Mayflower Compact, the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence and also selected writings of Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln.

The winners:
At St. Mary's school:
Russell Davies, 8th grade, silver medal and historical documents for his essay, "Development of Transportation in Illinois". Honorable mention: Charles Jackson and Linda Thompson.
Seventh grade: Shirley Stokes awarded historical documents for her essay, "Early Explorers of Illinois". Honorable mention: Joel Hamilton and Martin Stanisiz.

At Carpenter Street school: Roberta Lang, 7th grade, silver medal and historical documents for her essay, "From the Trail of the Savage". Hon-

Sentence Bandits Posing As Tax Collectors

(CNS) Two ex-convicts of a gang of fake magazine salesmen charged with gaining entrance to the homes of elderly persons in remote areas and then taking their assets with threats combined with force under the guise of federal agents have been given three-year federal jail terms by U.S. District Judge Hubert S. Will.

The two are Harry Jordan, 25, and Thomas Abshire, 31, both of whom were sentenced to serve two to five years Monday in Criminal court on a robbery charge arising from one of the same two offenses involving south suburban residents. The sentences will be served concurrently.

"Victims of this gang are elderly gentlemen in their sixties and seventies," Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Sikes told Judge Will. "Various ruses were used to get in, including attractive women. Once inside there is some force including a display of firearms and some mishandling".

The offense in which they were convicted for both robbery and impersonating internal revenue agents involved Arthur Sievert, 65 years old, 179th street one mile west of Route 45, Orland township. On Oct. 3, 1962, the pair took $70, two checks made out to blank totaling $500, and a watch from Sievert on the pretense they were collecting income taxes.

The second case to which they also pleaded guilty to impersonating FBI agents, involved Alex and William Seilers, brothers about 70 living on 131st street and Bell road, Lemont twp.

On Oct. 15, 1962, they took $175, some old coins, a title orable mention: John Suis and Maureen Carlson.

Eighth grade: Tom Tilsey, awarded historical documents for his essay, "Growth of Illinois Agriculture". Honorable mention: Cynthia Vredenburg and Joan Yunker.

Eighth grade: Tim Ricketts awarded historical documents for his essay, "History of Illinois Giant Industry". Honorable mention: Linda Istel and Michael A. Maly.

The two medal winning essays are to be found on Page 3.

abstract, and some bank books, also on the pretense of tax collection.

According to Sikes, the defendants gained entrance after Jordan impersonated a disabled veteran who sold magazines for a living with the help of his "nurse", a young lady who accompanied him to the door and then withdrew to the car.

Prosecutor Sikes recounted to the court that Jordan was in violation of parole granted after 13 months on a one to 15 year sentence in the Mansfield, (O.) prison for assault with intent to rob. Abshire spent one year in Atlanta, Ga., prison; two years in Richmond, Va., in 1951 and three years in 1959. Asked if he had anything to say, Abshire told the court:

"I never did ask the court for a break before and I don't deserve it, but if I did get a break I'd have a reason for going straight because I've had it."

Before imposing sentence, Judge Will said:

"I've concluded that each time a human being gets in one of these affairs he has less resistance the next time. It becomes a way of life."

A third original defendant, James C. Norton, 26, was sentenced in Kalamazoo, Mich., for taking $1,600 of an 87-year-old man and was not indicted here.

Waiting for Abshire when he gets out will be that case, as well as a state charge in Bloomington, Ill. Milwaukee charges against Abshire and Norton for a $1,628 shake-down attempt in the guise of social security employees were dropped.

Split of Marley School District Hits Snag

The question of dividing the Marley school district (No. 125) and attaching one portion to the New Lenox grade school district, No. 122, and the remainder to Mokena grade school district, No. 159, will not be answered until next month.

A hearing on the two petitions was conducted the night of Feb. 19 at the courthouse in Joliet by the Will county board of school trustees and action deferred until March 19.

By that time the trustees hope the boards of the three districts involved will have taken advantage of the period to discuss differences and perhaps come to some agreement.

If the petitions are dismissed now new ones cannot be filed for a year, it was pointed out.

The Mokena grade school board is opposed to the plan as devised and presented arguments against it to the school trustees thru their attorney, George E. Sangmeister of the law firm of Sangmeister & Santoro, Frankfort and Joliet. The gist of the board's objections is that it would get the children and the New Lenox grade school board would get the best of the valuation.

It is proposed in the petitions that the part of the Marley district lying south and east of the proposed line of Federal Aid Highways No. 80 be assigned to the Mokena district while the rest of it, including the school building, would be joined to New Lenox.

The petitions cannot be changed or amended to cover any possible compromise might be offered, it was explained. The board of trustees have the power to grant the petitions or deny them. If denied the question will go over for another year. If the petitions are granted the Mokena board could appeal to the Will county circuit court under the administrative review act. Such an appeal, it was explained, must be filed within 10 days after the appellant has received notice in writing of the action taken by the trustees.

Directors of the Marley school and apparently the people of the district have no objections to the dissolution of the district. The petitions for annexation came from the district and no objections appeared at the hearing last week.

Several years ago when the Lynk school district was annexed to the New Lenox district the New Lenox school board suggested that Marley come in at that time too but then the people of Marley wanted to operate their own school. It was then they built the new school. New Lenox grade school board interposed no objections at the hearing last week.

Indications are that the Mokena board will abide by its objections.

Assessed Valuations For Area Towns Show Increase

Total assessed valuation for Will county, real and personal, is $650,627,585 for 1962, it has been announced by the board of review following any adjustments that have been made in the books of the township assessors.

As could be expected in consideration of the large number of industrial operations in Joliet and Lockport townships the valuation in those two political subdivisions amounts to approximately 59% of the county's total.

Total valuations are up in all the area townships. Manhattan had a decrease in the personal property valuation for 1962. It was $1,467,535 as compared to $1,524,895 in 1961. But the total valuation for 1962 was $8,663,135 as compared to $8,608,800 for 1961, an increase of $54,300. There were 31 fewer automobiles reported in Manhattan last year, the tables show.

The total valuation for Frankfort township for 1962 was $21,182,615; in 1961 the figure was $19,597,500, a gain of $11/2 million. Personal property valuation for 1962 was $2,772,260 as compared to $2,659,960 for 1961.

In New Lenox township the total valuation for 1962 was $20,061,83, of which $2,497,165 was in personal property; this compares with a total of $19,184,415 with $2,489,940 personal property for 1961, or an increase of $877,400.

In Green Garden the 1962 total valuation was $5,537,490 with $1,104,215 in personal property; in 1961 the total was $5,513,295 of which $1,102,175 was in personal. This was a gain of $24,195.

In Homer the total valuation for 1962 was $11,286,260 with $2,620,545 in personal property; in 1961 the total was $10,681,295 with $2,518,560 in personal property, thus an increase of $605,000.

In Lockport township the 1962 total was $124,323,755 with $43,121,665 in personal property as compared to a total of $122,772,235 in 1961 with a personal property valuation of $42,891,325.

Joliet's total for 1962 was $260,260,985 of which $59,108,900 was personal as compared to $257,074,155 in 1961 with $59,235,435, a decrease.

DuPage township had the biggest gain in valuation, $3,510,365. The number of auto shot up from 1,666 to 2,051.

Peotone's valuation was down half a million; Willow's dropped $21,815 and Will township was down $40,000 but Monee up $1,141,300 for a total of $18,720,275. Washington township was up $416,000 while Crete's gain was $930,000.

Mokena Board Studies Water Improvements

Extension of water mains to eliminate dead ends and making other improvements to the system is under serious study by the Mokena village board.

Village Engineer Ralph Yunker said that he has talked with the bond house that purchased the revenue bonds thru which the sanitary sewer system was installed and was informed that the village could issue $40,000 to $80,000 in bonds now without any increase in interest rates.

He added that in his opinion the tank at the well should be reinforced and a chlorinator installed. He said it would cost approximately $55,000 to extend the mains now needed.

Trustee Henry Shevlin reported that in installing a drain valve on Parker street it was found that the water lines along there are in bad shape. The line has been flushed twice and will be flushed again this week end. Clyde Yunker told Mayor Swanberg, the latter reported, that he did not believe the line would last another year.

Village Attorney Ronald Galowich suggested that persons who live where village water is available should be required to pay village rates.

He also brought up the possibility of enacting a public benefit tax which could be used by the village in meeting its share of public works financed by special assessments. Such a provision should be made, he said, before time to make the annual tax levy.

Galowich said he would have the zoning ordinance ready to bring before the board at the next meeting. The board and the zoning commission will study the measure before a final draft is adopted, it was said.

The board is also giving consideration to adoption of the national building code.

Galowich suggested that the board have the ordinances brought up to date and that a figure on the cost be obtained from the Illinois Municipal League with a view of setting up a fund for the purpose in the next appropriation ordinance. He was authorized to obtain such information.

The attorney also was instructed to write the Sinclair Oil Co. to the effect that their sign at the station at Wolf road and Front street be altered to permit a clear view to motorists going west on Front street. It was said that the sign makes it difficult for such motorists to see traffic approaching from the north on Wolf road. The board also would clear the sidewalks at the station of merchandise.

Trustee Will Tuttle wants one or two extensions to the present police telephone line. Trustee Clarence Zugenbuehler agreed to allow such an extension to be placed in his home for a six-month trial. He is to relay such calls to the police. Tony Dina also is taking such calls.

JUDITH WIEGEL

Frankfort Girl To Serve Inner City Peace Corps

Dr. O. P. Kretzman, president of Valparaiso University announced that Judith Wiegel of Frankfort has been selected to work with the newly formed Inner City Peace Corps. She has been assigned to St. Mark's Lutheran parish, Brooklyn, N.Y. where she will work under the Rev. Mr. Erwin Prange. She is among 12 young men and women volunteers who will serve in the "melting pot" neighborhoods in large, metropolitan districts where there is a need for help in youth guidance.

After careful consideration and screening by an appointed committee, she will undergo an orientation program which includes a tour of duty on Chicago's South Side. She has enrolled in a short conversational course in Spanish and will further her training during a five day stay at Camp Cordia, Mich. next summer.

When the training period is over, she will leave for her station where she will share a tenement apartment; her rent, food allowance and $80 a month subsistence salary provided for her.

Miss Wiegel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wiegel and is a sophomore at the university, majoring in the Youth Leadership Training program. She is a graduate of Lincoln-Way high school.

She will leave for her station in Brooklyn, N.Y. sometime next summer.

N. Lenox Village Board Discusses 1963 Budget

At a special meeting of the village board held last week by the New Lenox village board there was some preliminary discussion of the budget for the next fiscal year.

It was estimated that the village would have some $117,000 coming in--$63,000 in taxes and rents for the sewer department and $54,000 for general purposes.

Of the amount expected to come into the sewer department $15,000 would be from taxes for payment of principal and interest on bonds. The balance--$48,000 was estimated to be the income from sewer rents.

Of the amount designated for general purposes more than half would be derived from New Lenox's share of the sales tax. The sales tax brings in approximately $30,000 a year at New Lenox. The sales tax for cities and villages is one of those temporary measures that could be erased at anytime by the state assembly, it was pointed out, but not without a terrific protest by the municipalities, a spokesman said, since the sales tax is now counted by cities and villages as its most lucrative single item of revenue. In the case of New Lenox, for example, it expects to get $13,000 next year from property taxes and $5,000 as its share of the town's road and bridge tax, or about $12,000 less it expects to realize from its share of the sales tax.

It is not expected that the budget will be ready for a couple of months but the trustees are working on it. One of the items of business scheduled to have been taken up at the special meeting was the hiring of a business manager for the village. The subject was mentioned briefly and then shunted aside until a later meeting.

Mayor Stanley Gilmore who brought up the proposal at the regular session Feb. 13 explained that the plan would give the village a full time official who would be on hand every day, to handle complaints and village business. Members of the village board indicated they are in favor of such a move and according to the mayor a retired pensioner is willing to take the job for what the village can afford to pay. At the time it was brought up it was suggested that the pay for such a man would be approximately $2,500 a year.

FROM FOREIGN LANDS--Guests speakers at the American Field Services assembly held last Friday at Lincoln-Way High School were, left to right, Gunter Nitche (Austria), Johanna Harder, Netherlands, Magdalena Ortega, Chile; Margarethe Bagh, Germany; Jenny Chimarian, Greece; and David Resettenstein, South Africa. To Sell Seeds

Each year the Lincoln-Way Future Farmers uses the garden seed project for double purpose. First, as a vocational agriculture project the FFA is always interested in making available the highest quality of seeds that can be secured. With that in mind, it is using the same source for seeds that it has for the past nine years.

As part of the project, a contest is organized. Prizes are awarded to high salesmen and a trip of some sort is planned for the winning class.

Frankfort Board Neutral In Airport Controversy

Some 50 persons attended the public discussion of the proposed Frankfort airport at a meeting in the village hall at that village Monday night and many of them appeared to be in favor of the project.

The meeting was called by the Frankfort village board for the specific purpose of having members of the village plan commission attend with the idea of arriving at a decision on whether to participate in any further hearings on the airport question.

Neither body had attended previous hearings by the state aeronautics board. Neither was ever notified of such hearings they told objectors who have asked them to go on record as opposing the airport program if a rehearing was granted.

Edward Fleck, Wilbur Hossbach and Oscar Rheinwald, who own land adjacent or close by the proposed airport on Center road south of Frankfort, appeared at the regular meeting of the village board Feb. 18 to ask the board's help in combatting the issue. Mr. Fleck said then that their attorney, State Representative Francis J. Loughran, was moving for a rehearing of the case. The state aeronautics board had already granted a permit for the airport.

The Frankfort village board told the objectors they doubted they had any jurisdiction in the case but would call a meeting for this Monday and ask the planning group to attend for the purpose of discussing the situation. Some of the trustees also indicated they would like an expression of opinion from village residents on the proposal.

Since that time the village board and the planning commission have received word from the state aeronautics board that a rehearing would be held.

Objectors to the airport say that the presence of planes in the area would be hazardous to residents and would depreciate property, especially in the vicinity of the flying field. They pointed out that the airfield was to be a commercial venture. They also contend that the promoters of the airport want to come to Will county because they could write their own ticket here, so to speak, since Will county has no ordinance covering airports.

Objectors asked the village and the planning commission to intervene on the grounds that they had control over subdivisions and so-called improvements within a mile and a half radius of the village.

Village Attorney Albert H. Krusemark told the board on various occasions that this mile and a half control could be imposed only on the layout of subdivisions and carried no weight as far as land use is concerned. He repeated this at the start of this week's meeting.

The trio of objectors who appeared at the meeting of the village board Feb. 18 were joined this Monday night by Vernon Hansen, another landowner living in the area that will be affected by the airport. There were quite a number of farmers present but they did not take part in the discussion.

In the audience were representatives of an airport near Lockport, the Superior Match Co., the Triple R Ranch and some Frankfort business people who indicated they were in favor of an airport.

They argue that Frankfort, like all communities in the area, is in for considerable growth in the not too distant future and that an airport is needed to handle the increasing use of small planes by business firms.

At the end of the village board reaffirmed its stand that it was neither for nor against the location of an airfield south of the village and that it was not within its jurisdiction to appear before the aeronautics board on either side in the controversy.

Objectors to the proposal declare they will continue their fight. They argue that if it is to be a small landing strip the field would not serve the purpose some of its champions claim for it and that if it is large enough to operate commercially, and permit the landing and takeoff of passenger and cargo planes to serve industry and business it will become a hazard and a nuisance and a source of many complaints from persons now either for it or are indifferent to it.

The airport operators are said to have purchased 23 acres of the John Arnold farm. Fleck claims they are buying more land.

SPEECH CONTEST WINNERS -- In annual competition stated by the Future Farmers of America. On the left is Lloyd Christiansen who spoke on the subject of "Farm Safety", and on the right is Thomas Heisner whose subject was "Minimum Tillage For Corn Growing." Christiansen and Heisner placed second and third respectively. First place winner was Jim Walsh (center) who spoke on "A New System For Raising Swine." Gold, Silver and Bronze medals were presented to the winners.

L-W Band Parents Push Decal Sale

A total of $651.50 has been received from the Lincoln-Way Band Boosters decal drive which started in January with approximately 4200 stickers mailed to residents in the four communities comprising the school district. The number of decals purchased from individuals of the communities are: New Lenox - 143; Mokena - 141; Frankfort - 84 and Manhattan - 43.

The drive will continue for another month to give persons a chance to send in a contribution on the decals they have received in the mail or to secure additional stickers from the following chairman: Mrs. Edwin Mazurek, Mokena; Mrs. Bert Larson, Frankfort; Conrad Mark, Manhattan and William Clark Jr., New Lenox. Conrad Mark, ways and means chairman, says "your band needs your support."

The Boosters have set the date of Tuesday, April 30 as the second annual donkey basketball game to be staged in the school gymnasium. Last year's performance, which was a very successful event, was presented to an overflow crowd. It is the kind of entertainment each member of the family will enjoy watching. As with the game last year, riders will be composed of local persons and students.

Contests Will Mark All Area Village Elections

Saturday, March 2, is the final day for withdrawal by any candidates who have filed for village office and have since changed their minds.

Monday of this week, Feb. 25 was the last date for filing. New Lenox is the only one of the three area communities that will elect a mayor, village clerk and three trustees.

Frankfort and Mokena will each elect three trustees.

At New Lenox there will be contests all along the line. As of this date there are three candidates for mayor and named in the order in which they filed nominating petitions are: Eugene Hunt, now serving as village trustee; Robert C. Fahrner a teacher at Oakview grade school, and Stanley Gilmore, the incumbent who is seeking a second term.

There are two candidates for village clerk, Robert J. McCleary, incumbent, and Edith Sayers, who is employed in the Frick real estate and insurance office.

The three trustees whose terms expire, Eugene (Steve) McCovney, Chester Bowman and Evans Drotts, are all seeking re-election but they filed toward the end of the period and so their names will appear at the end of the ballot. Preceding them will be the names of Robert Bishop and Ben Thomas.

The incumbents, in announcing their intentions to seek another term, stated that they believe the present village board is representative of all areas, that it has done an acceptable job and should be allowed to complete programs now in progress. The trustees whose terms have two more years to run are Hunt, Don Anderson and Robert Randolph.

At Frankfort there will be three independent tickets and a Peoples ticket if all of those who filed remain in.

On Independent 1 are the first three candidates who filed, John Topp, Clyde Reils, both incumbents, and Robert Dean.

On Independent 2 will appear the name of George Zwolinski.

On Independent 3 will be the names Wayne DePorto, an incumbent who was serving out the unexpired term of Amos (Ted) Massey, resigned, and is now seeking a full four year term, and Frank A. Eisenbrandt.

On the Peoples ticket will be the name of Paul Lambrecht, who is also a member of the Frankfort grade school board.

At Mokena there are three independents who filed first, Fred Steinhagen, retired, a former village employee; Rudolph C. Engelhardt, who has not sought elective office before, and Ray Bisgrove, building contractor.

Then there is a ticket made up of Marvin W. Weitendorf, an employee of American Oil Co.; Gary Chase, Rock Island station agent and Hans Muehler, an employee of the Caterpillar Tractor Co., at Joliet. Three are to be elected for terms of four years each.

to statistics gathered by the Will county farm bureau, the amount of the delinquent personal tax bill continues to grow.

If Loughran's bill fails of passage and there is no further appeal in the current supreme court case, attorneys said then they expect the J.P.'s will start to work to collect the taxes due.

G.E. Wheeler, 52, New Lenox, Dies Suddenly

Funeral services were conducted yesterday (Feb. 27) at the Baskerville chapel, New Lenox, for George E. Wheeler, Jr., 52 who died suddenly last Sunday (Feb. 24) at his home, 215 Illinois highway. The Rev. Alfred H. Hunter, pastor of the New Lenox Methodist church officiated. Interment was in Maplewood cemetery.

A native of Marseilles, Ill. Mr. Wheeler had been a resident of New Lenox for the past 16 years. Previously he had resided at Chicago and Joliet. He was a die cutter for the Outlook Envelope Co., Chicago for 17 years. Recently he had been employed at the Facinelli Bakery, New Lenox.

Besides his wife, the former Margaret Fraser, Mr. Wheeler is survived by four sons and two daughters, George and Delores, Mrs. Walter Bish, of Chicago, and Edward, Paul, David and Carol of New Lenox, one sister, Mrs. Alex Fraser, and a brother, Harry Wheeler, of New Lenox, and five grandchildren.

Personal Property Tax Claims Still Debatable

Should a bill sponsored by State Representative Francis J. Loughran, (D), of Joliet, prohibiting justices of the peace from collecting delinquent personal property taxes, become a law the question would still be open to debate, according to attorneys.

The Illinois supreme court has ruled that J.P. courts have jurisdiction in such cases but as yet no one has done anything about it. Two Will county justices of the peace, George Sangmeister, of Mokena and Frankfort, and Robert Buchar, of Joliet, began the thing.

They declined to docket delinquent personal property cases on the grounds they lacked jurisdiction. Both of the judges are attorneys.

A circuit court judge, Victor Cardosi, of Kankakee, ruled against them. The two appealed. The appellate court of the second district upheld their contention holding that the county court was given sole jurisdiction in such cases by the state constitution.

This threw a spanner into the legal machinery of Illinois. Every county was affected. In Cook county justice of the Peace Leland Rayson of Tinley Park declined to handle such tax cases, quoting the appellate court's ruling as the basis for his refusal.

The state's attorney of Cook county and the state attorney general took the case into the supreme court. The upper tribunal declared the J.P.s had jurisdiction.

Sangmeister and Buchar are considering asking for a rehearing buy the supreme court. Attorneys are guessing that a petition for a rehearing would be denied.

Meanwhile no one is reported to be doing anything about pressing any delinquent tax

Soil Conservation Group Fills Post At Kankakee

Howard Turner, Hillsboro, Ill. has accepted a position as area conservationist at Kankakee for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service. His transfer was announced this week by Lester Binnie, state conservationist, Champaign.

Turner will fill the position recently vacated by the transfer and promotion of Minott Silliman to assistant state conservationist for the SCS in Wisconsin. Turner's new position will be similar to the one he is leaving, Binnie said, except the Kankakee job will have responsibilities related to land use problems around the Chicago metropolitan area as well as farm land problems.

Binnie explained that Turner has done an excellent job supervising the work of SCS people assigned to the thirteen soil and water conservation districts in Southwestern, Illinois. The transfer is to give Turner still broader experience in line with career development policies of the SCS.

Turner started work with the service in 1935 at Bethany, Mo. He worked in Missouri and Illinois until 1949 when he resigned to manage his own Farm Equipment Sales. He came back with the SCS in 1953 as soil conservationist working with the Montgomery county soil conservation district at Hillsboro. Turner was promoted to area conservationist June 1957. Turner is a graduate of the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

DEVELOPMENT OF TRANSPORTATION IN ILLINOIS

RUSSELL DAVIES

To begin with there are many events that led to the development of Illinois. But the one I consider the most important is the development of transportation, not only in Illinois, but all around the country especially in and around the Great Lakes.

The development of transportation began about 1800 and has been progressing ever since. Some of the most important transportation media at that time were the rivers and waterways. The development of canals in this country at the time aided the picture of transportation greatly. Waterways were at that time and still are the cheapest means of transportation. Because Illinois has a great waterway system, is on lake Michigan, has some of its rivers flowing into the Mississippi river, it is a natural place for industry to flourish. Thus where there is industry, there is a demand or need for people to maintain that certain industry. Whether the industry is agriculture or manufacturing, there is a need for people to maintain this industry. Because of the need in this state, it is a place of promise or a place to get a job. Because of this condition in Illinois at this time many people poured into Illinois. This was the beginning of the growth and development of Illinois.

As the state of Illinois grew and developed, so did the cities and towns within its boundaries. Two of the most important were Springfield, the capitol, and Chicago at that time a small town on Lake Michigan. Chicago is now the second largest city in the United States. It is one of the most important manufacturing cities in the world. Chicago grew so rapidly because of the development of transportation. Because it is on Lake Michigan on which ocean going vessels can travel, first by sailing through the Erie canal, then by sailing through the Great Lakes, Chicago can be reached by ships from foreign ports. Today's Chicago is a very modern city and is the world's largest railroad and air travel center. Chicago's stockyards are among the world's largest and are vital to the United States. Because Chicago is in the corn belt, it is also a great center of shipping and selling the grain products of the mid-west. Chicago has been called the "hub" of the United States. This name is well given because Chicago is centralized in our country. Chicago is vital to this country because of the trade and transportation it provides within our own country and trade with foreign countries. As I stated before I consider the development of transportation the greatest factor in the stimulation of growth of Illinois. This has certainly been confirmed in the growth and development of the City of Chicago in Illinois.

Transportation is the transporting or conveying of persons or goods from one place to another. There are different means of doing this conveying. I have emphasized water travel in stimulating the development of Illinois. I would say the most important achievement in water travel, helping the development of Illinois, was the building of the Erie Canal. The Erie Canal, completed in 1825, is a man-made waterway running from Albany, N.Y. to Buffalo, N.Y. This canal enabled ocean going ships to sail up the Hudson river to Albany, then through the Erie Canal to Lake Erie, then on to the other Great Lakes. This waterway helped Illinois tremendously because, now, Illinois is connected to the ocean and foreign trade.

Aside from water transportation, railroad transportation was a large asset to Illinois' development. The railroads transported raw materials needed for manufacturing where water transportation was not near the source of the raw materials. Railroads conveyed cattle, livestock and food products to market because water transportation was too slow or impractical. Now you can see how important transportation was to the development of Illinois. Without it, Illinois would never have become the tremendous industrial and agricultural state it is today.

Another Indian trail to become a white man's highway was between Chicago and Ottawa, known to early settlers as "High Prairie Trail". On this route on January 1, 1834 was dispatched the first stage coach which ever ran west of Chicago. The development of the thoroughfare leading westward from Chicago was associated with the mining district of northwestern Illinois whose chief commercial center was Galena. This followed a route blazed by Oliver W. Kellogg in 1825 and was known as Kellogg's Trail.

In pioneer days a road was any kind of track leading to a designated point sometimes not even a track but would be identified by plowing a furrow or dragging a tree across the prairie. The demand for better highways was always present. The towns had long been aware of the importance of highways because without them the city could not prosper. Then came the solution of their problem, the building of a plank road. The first one built between Chicago and River side was called the Southwestern Plank Road. There was a 25 cent toll for using it. Soon a network of plank roads radiated out from the city. They performed an indispensable service without which its development would have been impossible.

These were but small beginnings. It took something a lot bigger to get fine highways. It was a job waiting for the automobile. At first the auto could be used only in the spring and summer when the roads and streets were passable. In the winter they were stored away. Progressive cities and communities surfaced

FROM THE TRAIL OF THE SAVAGE

ROBERTA LANG INTRODUCTION

The country was raw and primitive. The red men and buffalo roamed the hills and prairie. The red men left no record of his travels other than the marks made by his feet in the soil in passing. The only roads were scattered Indian trails and hard packed traces beaten out by millions of buffalo in their search for food. Over the trail of the savage passes the foot of the white man and civilization dawns.

An Indian path first used by the French as a means of communication between Canada and Louisiana was the first main route in Illinois known as the Vincennes Trace. Later it was called Hubbard Trail after Gurdon S. Hubbard who used it to carry on his fur trading business. In 1834 Illinois laid out a state road following the course of this trail. This provided the major portion of travel for the stream of immigrant wagons going northward into the still vacant lands of Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa.

Another Indian trail to become a white man's highway was between Chicago and Ottawa, known to early settlers as "High Prairie Trail". ed their main streets with gravel and stone but some of the improvements sound odd today. They made the roads of sawdust and then covered it with sand so the roads would not catch fire from a match, spark or "stoge". But these roads were usually a mile or two long and would end abruptly.

In 1909 a fine new road was built in Wayne county Michigan, only one mile long but made of something new and durable - concrete. This was the beginning that paved the way for the big road building boom. For the first time automobiles and trucks could travel easily over the ancient route of the Indian, buffalo and pioneers.

In 1919 the state began the construction of a state-wide system of paved roads and on Jan. 1, 1942, there were 14,636 miles of heavy duty highways, a mileage exceeding that of any other state.

The more need there is for a road, the better the road will be and without the modern roads of today Illinois could not be the great state that it is. Highways had to be designed to handle a multitude of vehicles at a high rate of speed so Illinois built three great tollways, the Tri-State, a "belt" route around Chicago from Indiana to Wisconsin, the East-West tollway that connects Chicago to Aurora and Route U, S. 30, and the Northwest tollway connecting Chicago, Elgin, Rockford and Beloit. These tollways are showing a strong improvement in earnings.

The expressways connecting to the tollways are the Northwest, the Congress Street and the Edens. These routes were built because of the growing need of the people. These are the beginning of a network of highways that will soon spread throughout the state.

"People can live anywhere since fuel, food and everything necessary to living can be brought to them by truck over highways. Factories built on any highway are now connected with every other factory because of highway transportation. School buses can take children to and from school and automobiles can take you back and forth to work. Cars and roads keep civilization on the move covering millions of acres in countries and towns.

A century and a half after the fur trappers moved southward into Indiana from the raw boned village of Chicago, plodding a wilderness pass, the Vincennes Trace, Chicago opened the latest marvel in highway engineering along this trail, a spacious fourteen lane super highway twelve miles long. A $200,000,000 expressway serving the city's lumbering South Side. Wonder of wonders, the new marvel worked. The Dan Ryan expressway, named after Cook County's late board president, was a 55 mile per hour miracle.

Any path, any trail, any road exists because there is a need for it. The old frontiers of Illinois are gone.

Economic Highlights

As the mills of this Congress grind slowly along in their traditional way, the people of the nation give greater and greater attention to the plans and prospects that are in the works. And one thing can be said with considerable certainty -- the cleavage between Administration thinking and proposing, and Congressional thinking and action, are, in some cases, very deep indeed.

Tax reduction, to be followed by major revisions in tax policy, are at the head of the President's agenda, so far as domestic affairs are concerned. But the chance of Mr. Kennedy's program being approved in its present state seem to be exactly nil. He asks for a $13.5 billion tax cut, to be accompanied by changes in the law which would offset $3.5 billion of that. The net result would be a cut of $10 billion, with most of the advantage going to taxpayers in the lower and middle income brackets. At the same time, in other messages and proposed bills sent to Congress, the request has been made for greatly increased spending on an assortment of projects. The Administration program, whatever it merits or demerits, is to spend more and collect less. Some have figured that, if this program was adopted in its entirety, the deficit would reach an incredible figure during the coming fiscal year -- $15 or $20 billion or even more. And the Administration's argument to the effect that great deficits are not necessarily producers of inflation is viewed with very cold and dubious eyes in some high Congressional circles.

Also, there is next to no chance that Congress will accomplish the massive job an overhaul of the tax system involves during this session. There is just too much difference of opinion as to what is needed. Some of the proposals made so far by the President are intensely controversial. What Administration advisors may call tax "loopholes", for instance, are, in the view of others, fair and necessary exceptions to the general rules.

Last year the Administration threw about all the weight it could muster behind the Medi-care bill, for providing an extensive list of medical services to everyone drawing Social Security benefits. The effort failed -- the mountain didn't even produce a mouse. But, as the President has made clear, the bill, in similar if not identical form will be back again. And, again, its chance of enactment seem very dim. What is probable is something more to Congressional liking -- an expansion and improvement of the existing Kerr-Mills law, whereby federal funds are available for the medical needs of those who clearly are unable to pay for them, whether or not they are within the Social Security system, with administration of the program established at the local level.

The future of foreign aid is also in doubt. Increasing numbers of Senators and Representatives, within both the parties, think that this must be cut back. And France's action on vetoing British admission to the Common Market may bring an "agonizing reappraisal" of our whole international position, the Western defense alliance included.

Finally, we have not heard the last, by any means, of discussion of the extent of Communist infiltration into this hemisphere, and what we must do about it. Secretary of Defense McNamara's conference, of February 6, in which he dramatically denied that Soviet offensive weapons are now in Cuba, did not convince the skeptics. Other evidence indicates that he is possibly mistaken. A determined, probably bitter, effort will be made to determine the truth of the matter.

To say the obvious -- it will be a busy season at the White House and on Capitol Hill.

Business & Finance

By Maurice P. Angland
As is usual, there are quite a number of shades of expression as to reasons why the stock market has resisted a correction in price level after substantial increases in prices and this particularly in the top grade brackets. Standard & Poor's investment service expresses belief there is a pressure of funds seeking investment.

This service notes that although popular equities are not bargains at this level of market price to earnings ratios, common stock is the favored investment vehicle of institutional and large investors. It is reported that institutional investors are expecting well maintained earnings and higher dividends as well as a more active business picture later this year. Spear & Staff, a well known investment service, expresses belief that recently speculative accounts were expressing considerable interest in railroad shares and the conservative investors have been bidding up utility stocks.

Several analysts note that common stock is becoming more popular as an investment medium. This investment sentiment is being explained by pointing to our large government deficits and the existence of somewhat the same condition in other countries of the western world. The obvious inference is that this is inflationary.

George Cloos, senior economist of Chicago's Federal Reserve Bank reports that business will move up slowly in the next few months after the slow down in the second half of 1962. He reports that the slow down last year was due to a sharp drop in inventory accumulation.

Mr. Cloos expressed belief we will now start to return to a normal inventory rate.

He also predicts an increase in capital investments of between 7 and 8 per cent which he noted is somewhat higher than estimates of a few months ago. We should note here that economists writing Fortune magazine's Business Roundup, have been predicting this increase for the last several months.

Mr. Cloos notes that, "Its becoming evident that estimates of industrial capacity are not necessarily good guides for capital investment. Old plant capacity is not really equal to new plant capacity".

Mr. Cloos noted the railroad industry of unexpected investment for capital improvements.

The Monthly Business Conditions of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank notes that a survey shows the railroads as planning to increase capital investment by about 20 per cent this year. It is reported that the increase was estimated at 12 per cent only a few months ago.

The Wall Street Journal that a build up of freight car fleets is badly needed and a number of new cars ordered may amount to $900 million as against $550 million in 1962. ACF Industries and Pullman, Inc. both report sizeable pickup in orders. The deterioration of rolling stock on the railroads over the years, has been a source of worry to the government regulatory agencies as well as shippers and institutions owning railroad obligations.

The increased acceleration of depreciation granted by the Treasury Department in July and investment incentive tax credits, account for about $150 million increase in funds available for capital expenditures this year.

Annual railroad spending on capital improvements, reached $1.4 billion in 1957, but since that time have ranged between a half billion and a billion dollars. Constant shorting of the capital improvement account is serious.

Even though winter's chill has not left us, many people are making spring plans. Possibly the first goal would be to get completely thawed out.

Many questions have been asked about oat varieties. Two promising newcomers are, Garland and Dodge. Seed supply is somewhat limited, but you may want to try one of these new varieties.

Other recommended varieties are: Clintland 60, Goodfield, Newton, Minhafer, Beedee and Shield.

New alfalfa varieties, Du Puits, Alfa, FD-100 and Cody, are excellent for short rotations (two years or less). Use Vernal or Ranger for longer rotations. Try Moapa for plow-down catch crop. It is not winter hardy.

Farming is no longer just a way of life; it's a business. To make a satisfactory income from full-time farming, you must study your business through good farm records to know where you stand.

Nitrogen topdressed on small grains at this time of year can pay big dividends if this nutrient is lacking. As much as 30 to 60 pounds of actual nitrogen can be applied with profit. The rate, of course, must be determined by the soil needs.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

"According to the 'think-pieces' I have been reading this is not only the space age but is also an age of specialization," remarked Jefferson P. Throttlebottom on a recent visit.

It should be added that Mr. T. is a specialist himself and has few equals in the field of free-loading. He had stopped in, he explained, to pass the time of day but as long as he was here, he added, he would have a cup of coffee. While he was talking he was filling his tobacco pouch after having put quite a dent in the fresh box of cigars that up to then hadn't been opened yet.

"Yes sir," he went on, "this has become an age of specialization. Look at the practice of medicine. The family doctor -- the general practitioner -- is on his way out. He hasn't disappeared yet, thank heaven, but he is almost to the brink and eventually he will be pushed into oblivion.

"The specialist school points out that the human body consists of hundreds of parts, tens of thousands of miles of passageways and a hundred trillion cells -- give or take a few. For one man to be able to understand all these things and treat the multitude of ills to which man is heir is just too much, they say.

"That may all very well be true but on the other hand I don't recall hearing of any great changes in the structural design of man. I think he has just as many parts, passageways and cells as he ever had. General practitioners have been doing a pretty fair job in basting man's diseases and I would like to see him stay on.

"I must admit, however, that the family doctor is laboring under a great handicap. You see at one time when people went to the doctor or he came to see them, they listened to what he had to say and accepted it.

"But today's patients are a pretty wise lot. While they are not exactly graduates of medical schools they read The Readers' Digest and other magazines that pride themselves on being first with the latest diagnosis and treatment of various and sundry ills. Besides that they sit in on all the consultations held by Dr. Kildare and Dr. Casey, to say nothing of the legal tribulations that beset young Dr. Malone.

"Like as not when the family doctor writes out a prescription today a patient is apt to look at it and instead of saying, 'Thanks, Doc, I'll go get this filled'...he is apt to suggest they try a drug he had read about or heard of on TV or radio.

"When he is up against the specialist, the patient knows that fellow isn't going to put up with an nonsense. He has seen them work on video.

"The big drawback about consulting a specialist is the fact that you won't be able to stop with just one. Before you are done they all get into the act. This is not only time consuming but it is expensive too; especially if you are in for a complete overhaul, with new rings, new pistons, new crankshaft and a thoro check of the generator, carburetor, transmission and differential.

"If there was only some way to suspend a patient so the different people could all have a go at him at the same time. With all of the different specialists coming in at once, each with his bag of tools, a large room would be necessary.

THANK YOU!

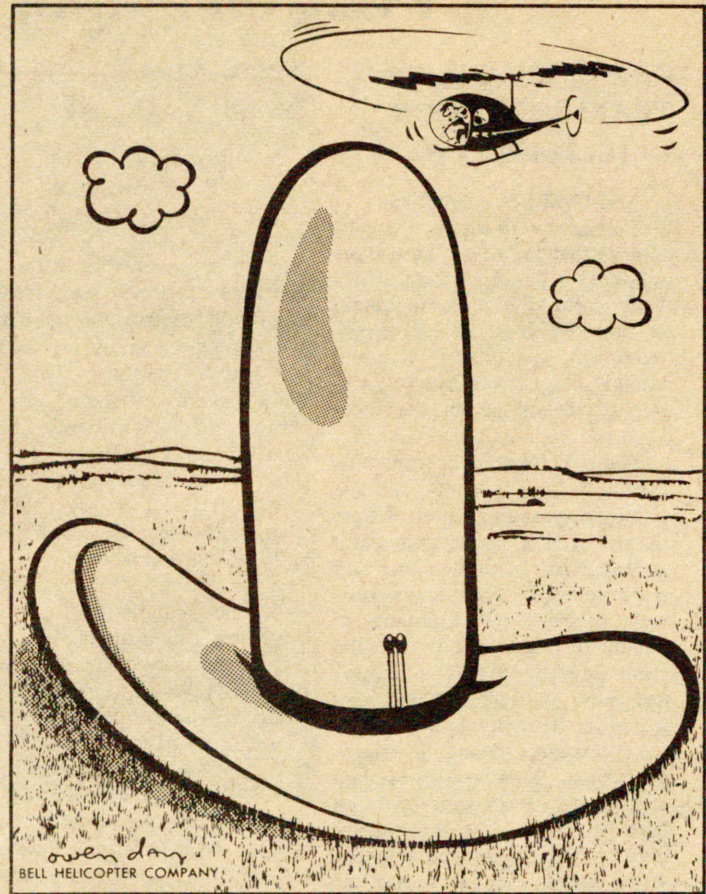

Dear Sir: Please accept our sincere thanks to you and your staff for the kind attention and full cooperation that was so generously given this past year in publicizing the frequent activities of the music department and the Music Parents Association of the Carl Sandburg high school. The excellent coverage and community service performed by your newspaper contributed immeasurably to the success of our tremendous goal -- the Denver concert tour -- which has just been completed.

To the people of the community we also extend our thanks for their wholehearted interest and loyal support of our many fund raising projects which made this trip a never to be forgotten experience for 131 students.

Sincerely,
Muriel D. Clayton

There would be the brain man, the chest man, the stomach man, the bone man, the radiologist, the ophthalmologist, the heart man, the psychiatrist, the dermatologist, the ear man, the throat man, the gland man, and all their helpers. They could prod and poke and pound and have the benefit of each other's opinions.

"Hey, Charlie, how about a hand with this clavicle?...Anybody got a three-eighth drill?...Give a look, Ben, any roof water coming?...now if you take this gimmick out he'll have a lot more room'...etc.

"It seems to me, tho," Jeff continued, "that the real answer to this specialization is to build a machine -- some sort of an electronic device. You know, like those computers. You could put the patient in the machine and all the prodding and poking that now is done by hand could be done by light and sound waves and finally out would pop a fortune cookie with the diagnosis written out on a piece of paper baked in the cookie.

"I understand that quacks have purported to diagnose ills thru use of a sort of pinball type of machine that lights up like the White Sox score board but without the noise and were doing quite a business until some newspaper blew the whistle on them. The machines were locked up by the authorities but I regret to say that the quacks due to the fact that under the law quackery carries less penalty than disorderly conduct or violation of do-not-spit-on-the-sidewalk ordinance continued to walk around and continue to ply their trade.

"I am not averse to seeing a sucker trimmed out of his money but I don't like to see these con guys take advantage of sick people.

Fire Destroys Home Of Savings-Loan Official

The home of Donald A. Nepote, executive vice president of the Lincoln-Way Savings and Loan, was gutted by flames late Thursday afternoon. At 4 o'clock in the morning firemen were called out again to extinguish a blaze there and again a little after 9 o'clock Friday morning. The Nepotes and their three children, Jeffrey 5, Steven, 3, and Susan, 11/2 years old, live at 1024 Plaza drive, on the far west side of Joliet.

The first fire was discovered about 5 o'clock in the afternoon as Mrs. Nepote (Florence) was starting to prepare dinner. They had taken Steven to a doctor and Mr. Nepote had gone to a drugstore to get a prescription filled for the boy.

When Mrs. Nepote saw the flames gush from a vent she seized the three children and thrust them out of the house into the sub-zero cold and hurried them to a neighbor's. The youngster's were in play clothes. There was no time for Mrs. Nepote to get any wraps. Seconds after they had fled the house the interior was filled with flame.

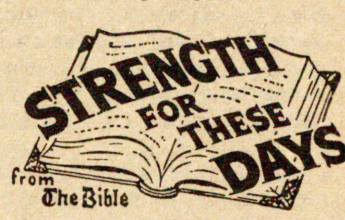

Nepote was returning from the drugstore when he saw the fire engines heading west on the Black Road. When he came to his house the firemen were there and the place filled with flames.

The Nepotes took refuge with neighbors. The second blaze broke out around 4 o'clock. An unidentified man going home from work at the Texaco Co. plant at Lockport, saw the flames fanning out from a wall. It ignited the south wall of the Morris J. Baillies residence next door at 1026 Plaza drive. The passerby roused the Baillies by pounding on their door and then ran to the next house, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carey, at 1020 Plaza drive, where Mrs. Nepote had gone to summon firemen the previous afternoon. The Careys took the Baillies, --mother, father and three daughters--into their home.

Firemen said they couldn't understand how the blaze rekindled with all the water that had been thrown at it on the first alarm. A little after 9 o'clock Friday morning firemen were summoned a third time to the Nepote home when some smoldering mattresses blazed up under the debris.

The fire at the Baillies home was confined to an exterior wall but there was considerable smoke damage reported.

Let us press on unto perfection. --(Heb. 6:1).

A balanced life is what makes for contentment as well as growth. If we had been meant to be only physical, only mental, or only spiritual, we would have been created differently. We are created three-fold beings and as we pray and work toward establishing perfect balance, we more and more express the perfection God means for us to express.

365 DAYS OF BENEFITS
CAN MEAN A LOT TO YOU
... WHEN YOU'RE ILL.
The BLUE CROSS Plan offers you the utmost in protection for as long as 365 days ... or one full year per illness or accident ... if you should actually require hospital care for that long. And,
BLUE CROSS usually gives you service benefits with no dollar limits. For example,
BLUE CROSS recently paid
$12,000 for drugs alone on a single hospital bill. Another member may require a lot of laboratory service or oxygen for several days. That's what the SERVICE BENEFITS OF BLUE CROSS really mean.
BLUE SHIELD helps you pay your doctor bills for fractures, surgery and illness when hospital care is required.

Utility Firm

Offers Free
Wiring Deal

Free wiring installations will highlight a new electric range sales campaign to be started throughout the Commonwealth Edison — Public Service Co. system next Friday, March 1.

The promotion will support the sales activities of some 1,000 appliance dealers throughout the utility's 11,000 square mile service area. It will extend through April 30.

During the two-month period 240-volt wiring will be furnished without cost to any customer who installs a new electric range in a single-family residence served by the utility.

The wiring will include new 100-ampere service entrance facilities, if needed, along with a 240-volt circuit to connect the range.

The wiring bonus enables homeowners with obsolete 2-wire systems to update their housepower with a modern 3-wire service of 24,000 watts capability, according to the electric company.

The campaign will also feature "guarantees of satisfaction" on new electric ranges sold by cooperating dealers and department stores.

Faith Loan To Complete Cross On Bald Knob Mt.

The Cross of Peace that towers 111 feet in skeleton form atop Bald Knob Mountain in southern Illinois will be completed this year in the same manner in which it was started — on faith.

Since 1954 more than 60,000 persons in the United States and other countries have contributed $170,000 to give near-reality to the dream of a rural mail carrier, Wayman Presley of Makanda, Ill. and a country preacher, the Rev. William H. Lively of Glendale, Ill.

Construction has been on a pay-as-you-go basis for the 830-ton concrete base and the 170-ton steel framework. Four huge floodlight boxes, each with ten powerful lights, will make the Cross visible at night over a 7,500 square mile area.

Advertising interests once would have contributed $250,000 for the non-sectarian project, but the offer was turned down on the theory that the Cross could be a symbol of the united feelings of the people only if it were built by small donations from many sources.

Now with success so near, the 10-member governing board of the Bald Knob Christian Foundation, Inc., with headquarters at Makanda has accepted a $40,000 loan from The Bank of Marion (Ill.) so that the huge symbol may be clothed in a sheath of porcelain-covered steel by summer.

Principal security for the loan is faith. Directors of the bank and the Foundation know it will be paid — in small donations. That is the history of the Cross.

Money came slowly nine years ago, and there were those who called the idea preposterous. But Presley, Rev. Lively and a few dedicated recruits simply would not give up.

The first big financial break came in 1955 when the Makanda mail carrier was featured on Ralph Edwards' TV show, "This is Your Life." Viewers from every state and several foreign countries mailed in donations that topped $100,000.

Then came the "Pig money", $30,000 of it, when more than 1,500 farmers in Illinois raised pigs and donated the receipts. It was another story of faith and hard work that began when a hill-country widow, Myrta Clut-ts Pledged $100 without knowing where it would come from. Shortly afterward her sow farrowed 21 pigs, a record number for the Cobden area.

Presley saw in this minor "miracle" a modern version of the Biblical "Widow's mite." He fenced in the widow's small hill farm and began multiplying the monstrous litter into hundreds of pigs. Then with a home-made trailer he distributed the pigs after he made his daily rounds on the rural mail route. Often he drove far into the night. When the pigs grew to market size and were sold, the money came back for the Cross.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs endorsed the project, numerous organizations contributed and small donations were mailed to "The Cross" at Cairo, Illinois from far and near. Eleven Chinese girls in Hawaii sent a dollar each, children gave weekly allowances and women picked strawberries and "Took in sewing" to help the cause.

the final $40,000 will be recorded in the Dedication Room on the lower floor inside the Cross. Eight hundred bronze plaques will be hung for donors of $100 or more.

Pass in the Union County hills? Says Presley, "This great beautiful Cross, standing above us near the population center of the land, will be a constant reminder of the presence of God. It will be an ever-present inspiration as we work and pray for peace."

Now You Can DIAL Your Own Long Distance Calls

Telephone customers in Frankfort, New Lenox and Mokena can now dial their own station-to-station long distance calls. Have you tried it?

Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) puts you close to far-away friends, relatives and business contacts in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, or any one of 40,000 other communities across the United States and Canada.

Calling long distance is fun, and DDD makes it even easier for you. You just "dial away the miles" and in seconds you'll be connected with the out-of-town phone you called. The cost of long distance is low, too, when you think of the pleasure your call can bring.

You'll find helpful information on how to make a DDD call in the front pages of your new telephone directory.

Remember, your long distance operator will still be at your service ... to place person-to-person, credit card and collect calls ... and to help you in any way she can.

Fish, Frogs, Lizards Experts In Camouflage

BY DAVID H. THOMPSON
Senior Naturalist
Cook County Forest Preserve

Proverbially, the chameleon changes its color to suit every mood or situation. Hence the word is also an expression of contempt for a person who is fickle or changeable in character.

That little lizard which is peddled at circuses or sold in pet shops under the name of "chameleon" is not the true chameleon of the Old World tropics but the anole, a native of the warm humid regions of our southeastern states. It is able to change from green to brown, or reverse, with some intermediate colors. Ordinarily it is pale green when quite warm or after it has been in the dark. In bright light or at low temperatures it is brown. Contrary to popular belief a brown anole may be found on a green leaf or a green one on brown bark.

All of our common frogs exhibit differences in skin color. In an hour or two a little tree frog can change from a vivid grass green, through a pattern of alternate blotches of gray and green, to a pale ashy gray with dark markings. Just as in the lizards, these responses do not necessarily harmonize with the frog's surroundings.

Fish of many kinds, on the other hand, change the pigmentation of their skins to match the color of their background more or less closely. In the 1930's a series of experiments was carried out with the little silver-mouthed minnow, a common fish of small streams and ditches in central Illinois. Placed in a black-bottomed pan they became a dark slaty gray; in a white pan they faded to a pale straw color. When dipped from the black to the white pan, or vice versa, the skin color changed completely within two minutes. No matter how often it was repeated, they changed as quickly as the first time. However, when they were allowed to swim from a black background, or a white one, into a pan painted half white and half black, 85 percent of them chose the background to which they were already adapted.

The advantage to a fish of being able to match the color of its background was proved by experiments with the little mosquito fish, or gambusia. For example, when fish from a white tank were added to an equal number in a black tank, a penguin quickly devoured three times as many of former as of the camouflaged dark ones. The value of this protective coloration was shown still more strikingly in other tests when a heron or a game fish was used as the predator.

The champion of all imitators is the flounder, a fish which lies flat on the bottom in shallow coastal waters. Not only does it adjust its skin color through the various shades of gray but it accurately duplicates the pattern of mud, sand, gravel, stone and shell bottoms. Checkerboard and polka dot patterns are not imitated so exactly. Strangest of all, black, off-white, blue, green, yellow, orange, pink and shades of brown -- but not red -- are excellently matched. However, some of these changes take a long time.

The color changes in all of these animals are, for the most part, the result of changes in certain star-shaped pigment-bearing cells in the skin, called chromatophores. Different ones contain granules of black, yellow, orange or red pigment. In a dark-colored animal, for example, the chromatophores with black pigment have the granules scattered throughout the cell. When the skin fades these granules become concentrated into a microscopic dot, leaving the remainder of the cell colorless. This exposes chromatophores with other colors. Still deeper in the skin are glistening silvery cells that reflect light like a mirror. The

Palos Village Players To Form Producing Company

Following the successful season of the repertory theatre in the Village Courtyard of Palos Park last summer, plans have been announced by Zay Smith, general director of the Palos Village Players for the formation of a producing company for the continued operation of a summer theatre in Palos.

The Courtyard summer theatre company will operate under a non-profit state charter but its method of operation will be business like and its artistic goal as professional as possible.

Tho the artists involved will receive no money, there is a great deal of compensation for them when they experience the satisfaction of having done an artistic job in a professional manner. Previous experience is not necessary, in fact they prefer to do their own training. A desire to learn and a willingness to cooperate are the only requisites necessary for one wishing to work with the summer theatre company.

The productions will again be staged, as they were last summer, in the Village Courtyard control of these color changes involves the retina of the eye, nervous system, the hormones in the blood, and so forth. The story becomes very complicated.

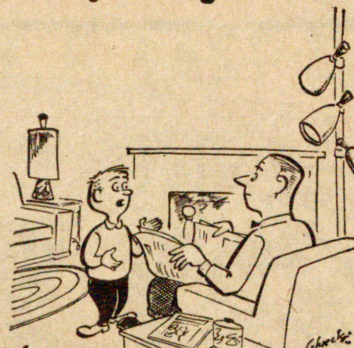

Scotch plaid frustrates even a flounder.

of Palos Park where they will be presented in the open, similar to the Elizabethan Theatre of Shakespeare's time.

The first of several meetings planned to discuss and select plays, conduct try outs and organize the summer theatre company will begin at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, March 5 in the new Player's Room of the Village Courtyard.

All persons interested in the establishment of a summer theatre in the Palos area and all who are willing to assist in building a strong theatre company, either by acting, directing or staff assignments, are urged to attend this important organizational and casting meeting. Previous experience is not necessary and all age groups are welcome.

Old Rockin' NI Gas Will Chair Help Pass Saving To Patrons

Mothers from all over Illinois are grateful to the University of Illinois cleft palate clinic in Chicago for -- a rocking chair!

About a month ago, doctors asked nurse Eunice Levander what the clinic could use. Mrs. Levander's reply was "a rocking chair." She explained that mothers come as far as 400 miles with cleft-palate children for diagnostic studies and treatment.

Altho the children are given a little sedation before X-rays are taken, they are often tense and frightened.

"Mothers," Mrs. Levander contended, "could use the chair to rock the children and relieve their fear and tension before X-rays are taken."

The doctors working in the clinic listened and decided to finance the purchase. As a result, the Illinois Society for Dentistry for Children bought the rocker in gratitude for speaking engagements by the cleft palate clinic staff.

The chair was an immediate success.

About a dozen mothers have rocked their children in the new chair and the children have been much more calm and easy to handle. Of course, the mother also appreciates the chance to relax in the rocker.

Gas bills for Northern Illinois Gas Company customers will reflect a pipeline rate reduction and a refund of about $2,700,000 from one of its surplusers, Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America, during the next 12 months starting March 1 (1963).

According to H. E. Ford, vice president, this is in addition to a pipeline refund of $4,120,000 announced by NI-Gas in December which the utility now is refunding to its customers.

The new amount reflects a pipeline rate reduction effective March 1 (1963). It will apply to all NI-Gas customers. NI-Gas plans to begin passing this back to gas users in 343 northern Illinois communities outside of Chicago starting March 1 in the form of reduced charges for natural gas.

Residential customers using gas for space heating will save an average of about $2.30 over the next 12 months by this latest pipeline rate reduction and refund. This is in addition to the approximate $3.30 per heating customer saving resulting from the refund received in December, according to Ford.

Sanitary District Says Public's Saving Money

The Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago will save $304,000 this year on the purchase of one essential chemical used in district operations, Frank W. Chesrow, president has announced.

More important, Chesrow declared, is that over the five year contract period, the sanitary district will save $1,520,000 in the purchase of the same chemical, ferric chloride, from the Penn Salt Chemical Corporation of Wyandotte, Mich.

Penn Salt, Chesrow said, submitted the lowest bid of three firms for the 12,000 tons of ferric chloride which the sanitary district utilizes each year. Vinton W. Bacon, general superintendent, said the chemical is essential for conditioning and drying of sludge. The process of converting sludge to fertilizer could not be done without ferric chloride, Bacon said.

"The sanitary district of Chicago is the single biggest consumer of ferric chloride in the United States," Bacon said.

The district, he said, utilizes the 12,000 tons each year at two facilities, the West Southwest plant, 5900 West 39th Street, Cicero, and the Calumet plant, 400 East 130th Street.

Bacon and Joseph W. Wade, assistant chief of maintenance and engineering, after studying the contracts of ferric chloride suppliers, reported to Chesrow that a more economical price must be gotten for the essential chemical. Chesrow agreed.

For many years, the district has been paying an average $105.07 per ton for ferric chloride.

The new price, thru Penn Salt, Chesrow said, is $79.73, a saving to the district of $25.34 per ton.

Both Chesrow and Garrity said that all existing contracts with the sanitary district are being carefully scrutinized by General Superintendent Bacon for the sole purpose of economizing wherever possible.

Explains "Cross-Compliance" This Is Ladies Day In In 1963 Feed Grain Program The Chicago Motor Club

The "cross-compliance" provision of the 1963 feed grain program was recently explained by Roy M. Smith, chairman of the Will county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee. Growers participating in the program will have to meet the cross-compliance requirement in order to qualify for the program's benefits.

Feed grains covered by the program are corn, grain sorghum, and barley. Only producers taking part in the 1963 feed grain program will be eligible for the program's diversion payment, the special price-support payment, and the regular price-support loans and purchase agreements.

Explaining the term "cross-compliance", the chairman said that a farmer taking part in the 1963 feed grain program will not only reduce the feed grain acreage on the participating farm, but he will also not exceed the feed grain base acreages on other farms in which he has an interest in any one of the three feed grain crops.

A farmer who has an interest in the corn, grain sorghum, or barley crops on more than one farm would not have to divert feed grain acreage into a conserving use on all his farms in order to qualify for payments and price support on one farm. But, if he wishes to obtain the benefits of the feed grain program by diverting acreage on any one farm, he will have to hold his acreage of the three feed grains on his other farms within the base acreages of those farms.

Failure to cooperate with the cross-compliance provision of the feed grain program, Mr. Smith said, would result in loss of the diversion and price-support payments, as well as loss of eligibility for the regular price-support loans or purchase agreements on corn, grain sorghum, and barley.

Farmers who are interested in participating in the 1963 feed grain program are urged to get in touch with the Will Co. ASC Office at an early date. The program sign-up is now underway and will extend through March 22nd.

College Choir To Give Concert At Lemont High

The Senior Choir of Concordia Teachers College, River Forest, Illinois will present a sacred concert at Lemont Township High School, on Wednesday, March 20, at 8 p.m.

Featured in the program open to the public will be Johann Sebastian Bach's motet, "Sing Ye to the Lord," and Hugo Distler's "Wachet auf, ruft uns die Stimme."

Concordia Teachers College, which will celebrate its centennial next year, was founded at Addison, Ill., in 1864, by the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod for the purpose of preparing teachers for the Lutheran elementary and secondary school system, the most extensive in American Protestantism with over 1375 schools. The college moved to its present campus in River Forest in 1913.

St. Matthew Lutheran Church in Lemont, a member of the Missouri Synod, is sponsoring the concert.

Over 1,100 students from Japan, Jamaica, India, Canada, Korea, and other foreign countries, as well as from almost every state in the Union, attend Concordia. They graduate with a Bachelor of Arts degree after four years of study. The college also operates a Graduate Division offering a Master of Arts in Education degree. Both programs are fully accredited.

Concordia's co-curricular activities program stresses training for future service in the parishes where its students will teach. In the area of music, Concordia's Senior Choir, one of five choirs on the campus exemplifies this purpose.

The choir, composed of 63 juniors and seniors under the direction of Prof. Thomas E. Gieschen, sings sacred choral music exclusively.

Plan Group Promotes "Open Space" Project

For the first time, agencies of five counties in the Chicago metropolitan area have agreed to work together in planning and acquiring land for forest preserves, parks, and similar "open space" purposes.

At a meeting Feb. 20 in the offices of the Northeastern Illinois metropolitan area planning commission, representatives of the forest preserve districts of Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake and Will counties signed an agreement to (1) prepare official long-range recreation and open space plans, (2) "use their best efforts" to carry out those plans through the acquisition of land, and (3) base their plans and acquisition programs on metropolitan area policies and plans developed by the Northeastern Illinois planning commission, the official advisory planning agency for the six-county metropolitan area of Chicago.

Chester R. Davis, president of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, signed the agreement for the metropolitan planning agency.

The agreement had previously been approved by the county boards of the five counties.

The new open space agreement makes the participating counties eligible for federal grants of 30 per cent of the cost of acquiring land for forest preserves and other open space purposes, under the federal open space land program established by congress in 1961. Under that program, the basic grant is 20 per cent of the cost of land purchased by a local government for park, recreation, conservation, historic, or scenic purposes. However, the law authorizes grants of 30 per cent in urban areas which approach open space planning and land acquisition in a region-wide, coordinated manner.

According to William L. Slayton, commissioner of the U. S. urban renewal administration, the inter-county agreement signed today meets the requirement of the federal open space land program. At today's meeting, Slayton, whose agency administers the federal grant program, congratulated the five counties and the Northeastern Illinois planning commission on a "history-making agreement."

"This agreement is a milestone, not only in open space land acquisition and planning, but also in coordination between public agencies to achieve a common goal," Slayton said. "Only two other areas in the U. S. have put together similar agreements, but this one encompasses the largest urban area," he added.

One of the parties to the agreement--the Cook county forest preserve district--already has submitted requests for federal aid in acquiring an additional 5,372 acres of forest preserve land. Several other local governments have applied for federal grants also, including the village of Homewood and the park districts of Highland Park, Niles, and Lake Bluff.

Paul Oppermann, executive director of the metropolitan area planning commission, pointed out, however, that the new Northeastern Illinois agreement commits the participants to use their best efforts to carry out their open space plans "with or without the use of grants under the federal open space land program."

In a review of the agreement, Oppermann stressed two values of the agreement:

"First, the agreement commits us all to plan to meet future open space needs, and second, it furnishes a base of inter-governmental cooperation and metropolitan coordination, so that each government can make open space plans and carry them out in confidence that the other participants will be doing their part also in creating a pattern of useful and attractive green space for the whole metropolitan area."

Oppermann pointed out also that the open space agreement will permit other local governments in the metropolitan area--including park districts and municipalities--to qualify for the larger federal land acquisition grants, as they too sign the agreement and develop open space plans. He expressed the hope that McHenry county, the sixth county in the metropolitan area, will also join in the agreement after it has established a forest preserve district.

1963 Feed Grain Sign-Up Program Is Now Under Way

The sign-up of the 1963 feed grain program now is under way in the ASCS County Office. Roy Smith, chairman of the Will county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee, has announced. The sign-up period started Feb. 1 and will continue thru March 22. The program covers the three major feed grains of corn, grain sorghum, and barley which are the same crops included in the 1962 program.

In general, the chairman said, provisions follow those for 1961 and 1962 crops by giving feed grain producers an opportunity to participate in the program by reducing acreages at least 20 percent and devoting them to an approved conserving use. By participating, they will receive diversion payments and price-support payments, and they will be eligible to take part in the price-support loan program.

One important change from programs for previous years, Mr. Smith explained, is the price-support payment which participating farmers will receive on the normal production of the acres planted to the feed grains in 1963. The payments have been set at 18 cents per bushel on corn, 16 cents per bushel on grain sorghum, and 14 cents per bushel on barley. Unlike the regular price-support loan, the rates for the price-support payments will be the same throughout the country; they will not vary by counties.

Also, this year, the price support loans or purchase agreements will be available to program participants on the entire crop produced on the 1963 feed grain acreage; in 1962, the loan was restricted to the normal production of such acreage.

From now on, the chairman believes, county office people will be increasingly busy explaining the program to farmers and helping them fill out the necessary forms indicating their "intention to participate" in the 1963 feed grain program. He urges interested growers to visit the office soon, and thus avoid last minute delays.

In homes with Flameless Electric Heat you almost have to hunt for dust

When you move into an electrically heated home you can practically forget about dirt. Electric heat is as clean as the electric light you read by.

There's no flame or fuel to make dirt, soot, or grime. And electric heat is such gentle heat it doesn't even stir up dust. In fact, in an electrically heated home you often have to look for dust.

EVERYTHING STAYS CLEAN LONGER

Your curtains and draperies stay fresh and nice for so long you'll have a time remembering when you put them up. Upholstery stays lots nicer, too. Electric heat is so clean you spend far less time housekeeping. That leaves you more time for activities you enjoy.

Living in an electrically heated home has other advantages, too, such as room-by-room heat control and fresher feeling heat that uses up none of the moisture or oxygen in the air. Even your skin feels more comfortable.

ELECTRIC HEATING NOW COSTS LESS THAN EVER

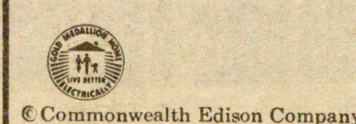

The recent rate reduction--on Electric Heating--applies to the three basic systems illustrated below. So, if you're looking for a new home . . . plan to build one . . . or want to modernize the heating in the home you own, call your nearest Public Service Company office for complete facts on the Electric Heating system that's best for you.

3 BASIC TYPES OF FLAMELESS ELECTRIC HEATING TO SOLVE EVERY HEATING PROBLEM

Radiant Electric Heating--offers room-by-room control. Ideal in homes or apartments. Just set the dial and you control the heat. Heating units circulate and radiate gentle waves of warmth throughout each room.

Central Electric Heating--new kind of furnace for new or older homes. Works with your present duct system. Circulates gentle electrically heated air. Air conditioning may be added at any time.

Electric Heat Pump--gives you perfect year-round climate automatically. Amazing unit conditioning by itself maintains ideal temperature and humidity with one setting.
